

Mediatonic Go PSP Go

Social Gaming Specialists Adds PSP Go to Platform List

21st August 2009

Mediatonic, the London-based social gaming specialist, has announced that it has signed up to participate in the development of games for PSP Go. With iPhone already under Mediatonic's belt, the addition of PSP Go to the company's growing range of platforms cements its dedication to providing unique, fun gaming experiences to online and portable platforms. Mediatonic's first PSP Go title is due to be announced shortly.

Paul Croft, creative director, Mediatonic comments "Signing up with Sony to work on the PSP Go platform is immensely exciting for us. Having dipped our toes in the water with Must.Eat.Birds on the iPhone, we're thrilled to be adding the PSP Go to our ranks – and we'll be designing original games specifically for the platform and its online delivery system."

For more information, contact Tony Coles or Keef Sloan at Peppermint P:

Tony.coles@peppermintp.com

Keef.sloan@peppermintp.com

+44 (0) 207 240 2645

About Mediatonic:

Mediatonic was formed in 2005 to produce high-quality browser-based social gaming solutions for clients predominately within the entertainment industries. Based in the west end of London, England, Mediatonic's team of 20 is dedicated to creating the best games they can, packing each release with passion, love and the utmost attention to detail. For more information, visit www.mediatonic.co.uk